MURRAY HIGH WINS GRID OPENER 40-2

Registration Closes Today For November 4 Elections

September 6 is the last day to register to vote in this year's Nov. 4 election.

With this in mind, Gov. Louie B. Nunn urges all unregistered Kentuckians to avail themselves of the opportunity of being heard from at the polls.

Calloway Countians should register at the County Court Clerk's office in the courthouse. The office will be open until 5 p. m. this afternoon.

County races that will be decided in November are for State Representative, Magistrate from District 3 and City Prosecuting Attorney.

Nominees in the State Representative race are Guy Lovins on the Democratic ticket and Max Hurt on the Republican ticket.

William Fandrich Rep., faces Lenis Hale (Dem) in the Magistrate race and Democrat Paul Shapiro is opposed by Harold Hurt (Rep.) in the contest for City Attorney.

Kentuckians this year will elect a State Auditor, 100 State Representatives, 19 of 38 State Senators, county and city officials, Circuit Judges and other local candidates.

Two proposed amendments to the State Constitution will be on the ballot.

One would provide for an annual instead of biennial meetings of the Legislature. The other would assess agricultural and horticultural land accord-

Seen & Heard Around Murray

Good luck to Bob Perry. A capable fellow.

Jenkins Lloyd Jones, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and Editor and Publisher of the Tulsa Tribune is an erudite man with plenty of common sense.

Says Jones: "Our economy is like an atomic pile. The heat is rising. The Geiger counters are growing noisier. But we are still some distance from the runaway, uncontrollable reaction that will produce utter disaster. We still have time to drive in the graphite rods that will control the fission and deliver, not explosion, but useful energy."

The joy of motherhood has been described as that time when all the children are finally in bed.

Good to talk with Buford Hurt.

Stephen Foust Wins CPA Certificate

Stephen C. Foust, formerly of Murray, received a certificate as Certified Public Accountant at ceremonies in Louisville, Kentucky Friday, September 5. Foust successfully completed the CPA examination given last May.

He is employed by Ernst & Ernst, Louisville, Kentucky.

The presentation was made by Sam W. Lyverse, President of the State Board of Accountancy at a dinner meeting of the Kentucky Society of Certified Public Accountants at the Executive Inn. Mr. and Mrs. Foust were guests of the Kentucky Society. Harry Lancaster, Athletic Director at the University of Kentucky, addressed this state-wide meeting.

Riding Show Planned By Calloway FFA

Dwain Rogers, president of the Calloway County High School Future Farmers of America chapter met with executive members of the New Providence, Wranglers, and Calloway Riding Clubs Wednesday night and plans were made to conduct a riding show on Saturday, September 20, at the Wranglers Riding Club.

Members helping to plan the show were Gary Wicker, Frank Fennel, James Puckett, Jerry Crouch, and Keys McCuiston.

The group decided to make this an annual affair. Last year the show was held at the New Providence Riding Club. Next year it will be at the Calloway Riding Club.

A charge will be made for entries and cash prizes will be given. First place winners will receive thirty per cent of the total entry fee, second place will receive twenty per cent, third place ten per cent, and fourth place five per cent.

In addition to an interesting program, the concession stand will sell hamburgers, hot dogs, ice cream, candy home made pie, popcorn, and cold drinks.

The program will begin at four p. m. on September 20. The admission will be one dollar per car load of people.

The entire proceeds of this

Mental Health Board To Meet Thursday

The Third Annual Meeting of the Trustees of the Western Kentucky Regional Mental Health and Mental Retardation Advisory Board, Inc. will be held at the J. U. Kevil Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center in Mayfield, at 7:30 p. m., on Thursday September 11.

The Board will seat newly-elected Trustees from each of the 9 counties: Calloway, Ballard, Carlisle, Fulton, Graves, Hickman, Livingston, McCracken, and Marshall, comprising the Region and will select new officers for the coming year. The Regional Board supervises the operation of comprehensive mental health and mental retardation Centers throughout the Region.

The Hon. Dale H. Farabee, M. D., the Commissioner of Mental Health, will be the featured speaker for the dinner meeting and is expected to discuss State plans for the coming biennium.

"The theme for the meeting, 'A Year of Challenge in Region I,' said a spokesman expresses the desire of the Regional Board to remain the leader in the fields of community treatment for the emotionally disturbed and the mentally retarded."

Red Cross Begins Christmas Shopping For Service Men

Shopping early for Christmas begins today, at the Calloway County Red Cross Chapter, for the 4th successive year.

"Santa's helpers" here will join with Red Cross volunteers in some 1,600 communities throughout the United States in "Vietnam Shop Early, 1969," the Red Cross program which annually provides a sufficient number of holiday gift-filled bags for each American serviceman and woman who is in South Vietnam during the Christmas holidays.

"Again this year the Red Cross is asking other community service organizations, religious groups, business firms and individuals to join in helping to collect the items needed to fill the bright colored drawstring bags which local volunteers will make," said Lester Nanny, chairman of the Calloway County Chapter.

"The Red Cross Shop Early project is just one way Americans can show that they care about our young men and women serving in South Vietnam," Nanny said.

The local chapter has been asked by the national organization to provide 200 of the bags. Last year many community groups and individuals in Calloway County participated in the project.

Among the most useful items the servicemen enjoy finding in a Christmas gift bag are ballpoint pens, plastic soap cases, small address books, washcloths, nail clippers, plastic snapshot holders, plastic cigarette cases and toothbrush holders, and small vacuum-packed tins of nuts or candies. Each chapter participating in the Red Cross project selects at least eight items to be included in the bags they fill.

Each bag will also contain a holiday greeting card listing the contributor and the name of the chapter where the bag was made and filled.

The Christmas project must be completed by September 30, the deadline for shipping bags. For further information call the chapter office 753-1421 or 753-4395, today!

Gospel Meeting Begins On Monday

The New Providence Church of Christ will be engaged in a Gospel meeting September 8-14, with Jay Lockhart doing the preaching.

Lockhart, now the preacher for the Glenwood Church of Christ in Tyler, Texas, is well known in Calloway County having served as minister for the New Providence, Green Plain and Seventh and Poplar churches of Christ.

The time for services will be 7:45 each evening. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Heaviest Attacks In A Year Launched Da Nang By Reds

By WALTER WHITEHEAD
SAIGON (UPI) — Communist troops early today launched their heaviest attack in a year on the city of Da Nang and surrounding Allied military bases. A ground assault against a U.S. Marine Corps jail killed three Americans and wounded 61.

At least 14 rockets smashed into Da Nang City, South Vietnam's second largest, killing 12 civilians and wounding 12 others. Reports said seven of the dead were children. It was the first shelling of the northern coastal city in nearly three months.

The U.S. Naval Hospital compound on the edge of Da Nang received at least one round, but there were no reports of casualties or damage. A direct hit on a South Vietnamese army ammunition supply dump near the Da Nang River sent huge fireballs into the night sky.

The U.S. Command in Saigon said the Da Nang assaults were the heaviest in the area since Aug. 23, 1968. They said total American casualties were three killed and 112 wounded. The attacks carried a new Communist campaign into its second day. The intensified shelling started late Thursday night only a short time after the Viet Cong announced they would start observing a 72-hour cease-fire at 1 a. m. Monday (1 p. m. EDT Sunday).

Tigers Roll Over Fulton Co. With Well Balanced Offense

The 1969 Murray High Tigers began their grid season last night with a 40 to 2 victory over the Pilots of Fulton County. The greatly improved Pilot squad engineered by quarterback Doug Nickell gave the Tigers a good battle throughout the game in spite of the one sided score.

The Tigers showed flashes of brilliance at times throughout the game in the running of Danny Carroll, Porter McCuiston and Jimmy Brandon. The defense improved as the game progressed, especially in the pass department.

Murray's first score came with 4:28 left in the first quarter. The Tigers received the ball on the kickoff and in five plays moved from the Fulton 48 yard line to the 19. Danny Carroll sprinted over for the TD and Jimmy Brandon ran over the extra point, picking up two.

The Tigers racked up six more points with the clock showing 1:58 in the first period. When Fulton failed to move, Murray took the ball on their own 44 and in seven plays, McCuiston, Brandon and Carroll lugged it to the Fulton 5 where McCuiston sped over for the score. The Pilots were waiting for Jimmy Brandon as he tried to run over the extra point and stopped him cold.

The only score in the second period came as Fulton trapped Carroll behind the goal line for a safety and two points. Fulton had moved the ball well gaining ground on a Nickell to Moore pass. As they neared the Murray goal line they fumbled the ball and Barry Stokes recovered for Murray on the 5.

Danny Carroll hit the line one time for no gain and on the next try he was downed behind the goal line. This was the only score for Fulton for the night. Murray High marked up their third TD with 4:45 left in the third quarter. Fulton was in trouble and failing to gain kicked out to Murray and Porter McCuiston took the ball on his own 35 yard line. Picking up his blockers, McCuiston, in a good change of pace performance, sped around right end to go all the way making it 20 to 2.

Murray picked up two more touchdowns in the third period, one with 3:56 left and the other with 2:05 left.

Beginning on their own 36 yard line, the Tigers, moving behind McCuiston, and Carroll got to the Fulton one yard line in six plays where Mike Ryan slashed across for the score. Jimmy Brandon kicked the extra point to make it 27 to 2.

For the last score of the quarter, Paul Bryant set it up with a pass interception at the Fulton 24 yard line. Danny Carroll slipped through the Pilot defense to reach the 7 yard line and Johnny Williams hit the line on the next play for the score. The extra point pass attempt was no good.

Coach Ty Holland brought in reserves for the final quarter of the ball game and they pushed over the final score with 7:01 left in the game.

Fulton had kicked out to the Murray 39. David Hughes, Monty Cathey and David Fitch showed up well as they moved the ball down to the Fulton 7 yard line. Mike Ryan bulled his way through the line to make the score from the seven. Mike encoored with an extra point run to end the scoring at 40 to 2.

The game ended with Fulton threatening once again only to bog down on the Murray two yard line where Murray took the ball on downs.

Murray attempted only one pass in regular play and it failed. As the game progressed, the Tigers' red dog tactics improved to nullify the keen passing of Nickell.

The Murray defense, slow at first, picked up as the game moved on. The Fulton ball carrier was brought down several times with the combined efforts of Buzz Wilham, Jimmy Brandon and Richard Blalock. James Pigg, Hollis Clark, Paul Bryant and Van Haverstock all played a good game.

Caught off guard early in the game by the quick passes of Doug Nickell, the Tiger pass defense corrected this by knocking down the ball carrier. Dan Anderson at one point in the fading seconds of the second quarter threw the ball carrier for a ten yard loss as he took in a Nickell pass. Hollis Clark also made a good pass defense play in the third period throwing the pass receiver for a two yard loss.

Tripp Williams, the Tiger 205 pound end, put in a good night's work both on offense and defense.

The Tiger squad sprung sev-

Changes Being Made In Rural Routes In County

Thirty-two hundred rural mail boxes are served by the eight rural mail carriers from the Murray Postoffice, according to Lester Nanny, postmaster.

These routes are being reworked by the local postoffice authorities and officials from the regional office at Cincinnati, Ohio.

Postmaster Nanny said the eight routes are being adjusted to make some of them shorter and others longer.

Patrons on the route will be notified of their new route number and box number if their route is changed.

The two routes out of the Kirksey Postoffice have been consolidated into one route with the regular mailman being Kenneth Palmer. While he is recovering from heart surgery.

Two Car Collision Occurs On Friday

A two car collision occurred Friday at 4:30 p. m. on South 4th Street, according to the investigating report filed by the officers of the Murray Police Department. No injuries were reported.

Cars involved were a 1962 Ford four door sedan owned by Raymond Crawford, 405 South 12th Street, and driven by Dorothy Sultzer Burkeen, 111 South 12th Street; and a 1969 Pontiac two door hardtop driven by Jimmie Musgrove of 217 Spruce Street, Murray.

Musgrove had pulled into the curb to park, said he opened his door to get out of car and failed to see the Ford going south on South 4th Street, according to the police report. The Ford hit the Pontiac in the left door, the police report said.

Damage to the Ford was on the right front bumper and fender and to the Pontiac on the left side.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at two p. m. at the chapel of the Blalock-Coleman Funeral Home with Elder Arlie Larimer and Rev. Gerald Owen officiating.

Palibearers will be Edward Lee, James Johnson, Howard Johnson, George Black, Frank Parrish, and Paul D. Jones.

Interment will be in the Unity Cemetery with the arrangements by the Blalock-Coleman Funeral Home where friends may call.

Real Estate Seminar Planned This Month

The Kentucky State Real Estate Commission 1969 seminar will be held on Thursday, September 18 from 9:15 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville.

The seminar is free to anyone wishing to attend and is especially for all real estate brokers and salesmen.

Among the most interesting and educational speakers will be Robert W. Semenov, noted lawyer and author. He is recognized as the top real estate licensee law authority in the United States and his book, "Questions and Answers on Real Estate" is well known in the real estate profession.

WEATHER REPORT

The weather will be generally fair and mild through Sunday in Kentucky with a few afternoon showers in the eastern section of the state.

Highs tonight will be in the 80s to low 90s. Lows tonight in the 60s to low 70s.

DOWN CONCORD WAY

By Estelle Spiceland
September 4, 1969

I do enjoy Darrell Shoemaker's "Let Me Write" column, so when there's no room for both of our letters, print his.

Last weekend history's pages were turned backwards many years when Mrs. Otis Eldridge with Laverne and Lertine Bucy stopped by a moment.

Lertine Eldridge was my quiet little student at Pine Bluff School once. She and her husband have been teaching in California, but were leaving last Monday for Swaziland, Africa, where Laverne is to teach agriculture for the next two years. His address is to be P. O. Luyengo, Swaziland, Africa.

Then as I am that unpredictable kind of person who likes to visit different churches for I have some very dear acquaintances in all, I attended a very enjoyable service at the New Concord Church of Christ Sunday.

Bro. Pigue reminded us that by our lives we could contribute or detract from the glory of the church.

One of the many visitors I met at church was the youngest son, Richard, I think, of the late Calvin Stubblefield. This brother of Matt Stubblefield was from Denver, Colorado.

How I wish that all churches could do as Paul begged in 1 Corinthians 1:10 when he said "I beseech you that there be no division among you".

There was lots of traffic during the Labor Day weekend, but no one enjoyed the holiday more than I.

I toured the old farm with my husband while he mended the fence. I found a lovely wooded knoll where an old house once stood and thought what a beautiful place for a new house. Then I remembered that plans were for the young. Our next house may be a cabin in the corner of Glory Land, but his is a beautiful world if man will allow it to be.

Congratulations to Uncle Sam McClure on having his birthday celebrated by his family at the City Park Sunday.

Best wishes to the newlyweds, Jim Pat Wilson and Janice Conley Wilson who now are at home in the former Joe Montgomery house.

Mr. Bobby Allen is having his class write New Concord history again. Only most of the older generation is gone.

I came to live in our Concord corner after 1940. Our garage apartment later became "over a grocery" apartment. Rainey Lovins put in a Delco plant so as we had electricity first, and therefore could sell the first ice cream so could hardly scoop it into cones fast enough for the crowds.

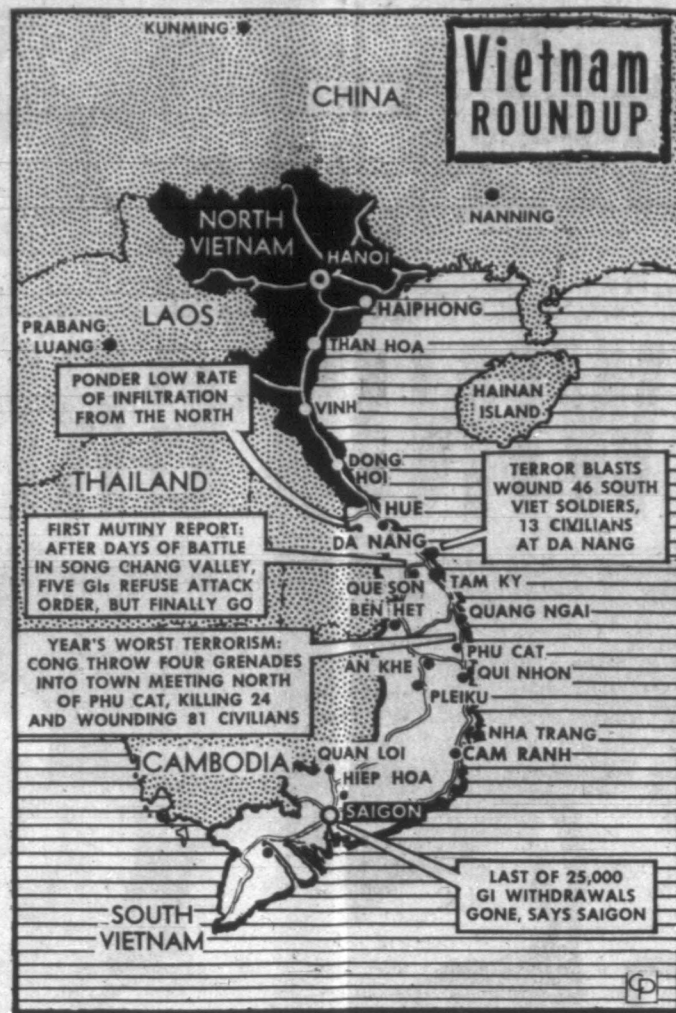

Now after almost 29 years in that apartment from which we could look down on the changes which a black top road brought, moving Concord down on the highway, our apartment is empty and we have moved to a larger house.

Another recent change is after 23 years of being janitor at New Concord School, Kelley Smith is retiring and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Finney are employed.

Another change in property was the sale of Locke Montgomery of the lot adjoining Sulphur Spring Church to Mary and Maud Nance whose mother, the former Emma Lovins, once lived at this old place.

Strange how as we grow older, old ties to the past become stronger and memories fonder.

We had hoped that the old Spiceland house left between the Lakes would be restored by TVA but bit by bit it is being taken away by

McCormack Not To Seek Post

WASHINGTON UPI — Speaker John W. McCormack already has established that he can lick any man in the House. Many members assume he won't feel the need to prove it again by seeking election as speaker for a sixth time. So the question now is, who will succeed him?

At the moment the liberal block looks to pine-sized Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., now the Democratic floor leader, as the heir apparent and duly entitled successor. Conservatives are pushing Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. Others have their lightning rods up.

McCormack is 77. He will be 79 at the start of the 92nd Congress. He has been speaker since 1962. But when popular Morris K. Udall, D-Ark., who is 46, challenged him this year on the ground the job demanded a younger man, House Democrats gave Udall only 58 votes to McCormack's 178.

Since January, with the rebellion quelled, the veteran speaker has continued to demonstrate the kind of stamina that makes men decades his junior groan as the House legislates into the night. McCormack, lean, gray and gaunt, is on the job early and late, daily giving his life to his elderly image. On Saturdays, when most congressmen couldn't be located by J. Edgar Hoover, McCormack is in his Capitol office, at work and ready to talk business with constituents, House members, presidents, other officials, and even newspapermen.

But his critics complain privately at lack of firm direction in the unwieldy 435-member House. They cite evidence that House and Senate leaders do not always consult. They say McCormack ponders today's problems in terms of Roosevelt-era solutions.

But after analyzing January's unsuccessful uprising, the activist liberals now conclude that as long as McCormack offers himself for the job he can have it — assuming continued Democratic control of the House. They are planning now on a belief he will not again ask for what is generally considered to be the nation's second most responsible job.

Sports Parade

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jack Dempsey has this one thing all champions have.

He doesn't get excited. Particularly during a prize fight. Especially if he isn't in it. Jack Dempsey wasn't in this prize fight and for eight rounds he behaved exactly the way you'd expect. Perfectly calm.

But his eyes suddenly lit up in the ninth round. Jack Dempsey was getting a little excited. You could tell by the way he leaned forward in his seat and squinted through the haze of cigarette smoke around him to get a better view of Rocky Marciano up there in the ring.

Dempsey watched closely, yet seemingly off-handedly the way one master does another, as Marciano sent in a left under Archie Moore's heart followed quickly by a right to the head and another left to the jaw.

Moore Begins Crumbling "Murderous puncher," Dempsey said, practically to himself. Even as those words were coming out of his mouth, Moore began crumbling. He grabbed the ropes and tried making it back up at the count of eight but it was no use. His legs wouldn't do what his heart told them to do and he fell back on the ropes as Harry Kessler, the referee, counted 10.

Neither Dempsey nor any of the others who saw the fight at Yankee Stadium on Sept. 21, 1955 realized they were sitting in on a piece of boxing history in on a piece of boxing history that night. It wasn't merely another fight; it was Rocky Marciano's last one. Seven months later, he retired.

Most of those who ever saw Marciano in the ring tend to remember him the same way Dempsey described him in that Moore fight. A murderous puncher. I always thought of him as that, too, but I also thought of him in many other ways.

Rocky never cared much for show as so many other fighters do. He didn't care about owning the fastest or latest model car and clothes didn't interest him much either. I imagine there are preliminary fighters around today who own bigger and fancier wardrobes than he did. Uprising Excellent

His upbringing was excellent. It was reflected in the respect he always had for others, particularly those older than himself, and by the way he treated his parents both before and after he became the world heavyweight champion. They always were uppermost in his mind.

Many things bothered Rocky Marciano. Some he spoke about, some he didn't. One of the things which disturbed him was his idol, Joe Louis, taking a beating when he came out of retirement. The fact that he was the one who inflicted that beating bothered him all the more.

"I'll always remember that," he once said. "Once I retire, I'll never come back."

He didn't. For a guy who hit so hard, Rocky was really a softie underneath it all. He was deeply depressed for a long time after he nearly killed Carmine Vingo in a fight late in 1949. Vingo was taken to the hospital and he lay in critical condition. Rocky went to church each day and prayed for him.

Carmine Vingo never fought again. He's 39 now and still partially paralyzed from the effects of that fight. When he awakened Monday morning and his wife told him Marciano had been killed in a plane crash, he didn't want to believe it at first.

Vingo Hit Harder "Maybe you misunderstood," he said to her. "Maybe it was somebody else."

Marciano and Vingo fought 20 years ago and Rocky never forgot that Vingo hit him harder than any other fighter. "I don't remember a thing about the fight," Carmine Vingo says now, "but I remember Rocky. He was a fine man."

Marciano's first love actually was baseball and he even had a tryout with one of the Cubs' farm clubs in North Carolina. Later, it got around he was too

Wyoming To Try For 4th League Title

By BRAD SMITH
United Press International

DENVER (UPI)—Four consecutive conference trophies are hard to come by in any league in the country, but that's what football Coach Lloyd Eaton at Wyoming will be trying to do this fall.

And most of the coaches in his Western Athletic Conference give him a good chance to do it, something that Eaton has called the "kiss of death."

Still, the independent Air Force Academy Falcons—with 18 of last year's starters back—could emerge as the best team in the Rocky Mountains despite a tough schedule.

The WAC battle could well be decided at the first of the season when Eaton's Cowboys host the Arizona Wildcats, Sept. 20, the only league team to defeat Wyoming last season.

Pre-Season Favorites

Wyoming, Arizona and Arizona State are the pre-season favorites in the eight-team WAC, with Utah given an outside chance.

The other WAC teams—New Mexico, Brigham Young, Colorado State University and Texas El Paso—are in rebuilding states.

For the first time in four years, Eaton will start a season with an experienced quarterback—junior Ed Synakowski. He has 27 returning letterman, including 13 starters from the 1968 squad that posted a 6-1 mark in the WAC and 7-3-0 overall.

Bob Weber, the new Arizona coach, will have a tough time matching last season's 8-2 record with road games against Wyoming and Arizona State plus matches against Houston and Syracuse.

Have Strong Passing Attack

The Wildcats will have a strong passing attack with Mark Driscoll hurling to Ted Sherwood, Mark Boche and Hal Arnason. Weber has switched last year's top receiver, Ron Gardin, to a running back slot.

Frank Kush at Arizona State has one of the fleetest backfields around, centered around fullback Art Malone, but inexperienced blocking from the line.

The Air Force and New Mexico State will compete for honors as the top independent club in the Rocky Mountains. If the Falcons can make it past a tough schedule that includes Southern Methodist, Missouri, Wyoming, Stanford and Notre Dame, they should grab the honor.

A new conference, the Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference, makes its football debut this fall with 15 teams from five states.

In Two Divisions

The old Rocky Mountain Faculty Athletic Conference and the Central Intercollegiate Conference, is split into two divisions. Two Colorado Squads, Colorado State College and Adams State College, are the pre-season choices to top their divisions.

At the University of Colorado, Coach Eddie Crowder could wind up with an unbeaten season if the Buffaloes only had to play offense. An untested defense will be the key to Colorado's hopes in the rough Big Eight battle.

Colorado's offense centers around do-everything quarterback Bob Anderson, who had 2,128 yards total offense last year for a big eight record. The 6-0, 208-pound Anderson has been the nation's top rushing quarterback the past two years.

Joe DiMaggio collected a total of 91 hits during his record 56-game hitting streak of 1941.

Jake Gibbs, New York Yankees catcher, was an All-American quarterback at the University of Mississippi.

Mississippi State Is Hoping For At Least A 5-5 Season

By DAVID MOFFIT
UPI Sports Writer

STARKVILLE, Miss. (UPI)—Over at Alabama, Bear Bryant is "rebuilding" because his team went 8-2 last season. Here at Mississippi State, the players are hoping that, with a little luck, they might go 5-5.

Of course, you've got to realize that despite impressive showings against the likes of Alabama, LSU and Ole Miss, Mississippi State didn't win a single game last fall.

Charley Shira, 1-17-2 after two seasons as head coach here, was asked how he felt to be a continuous loser after being associated with success for many years as a chief assistant at the University of Texas.

Look-Back Tendency

"After being used to winning and then start getting your rear end kicked, you have a tendency to look back," Shira told the "Skywriters," a visiting group of sportswriters making a tour of the Southeastern Conference.

"But that doesn't help," he added. "However, the record has made me realize I'm not as good a coach as I thought I was. You have to have the players."

"My coaches really drive themselves," Shira continued. "We had some dark days, especially in the first few games in '68; and we had some soul searching too."

Under Shira, Mississippi State upset Texas Tech, 7-3, in the third game of the 1967 season—and hasn't won since.

State finished 1-9-0 in '67 and then was 0-8-2 last year with a mid-season tie with Texas Tech and a closing tie with arch-rival Ole Miss the only "bright spots."

Tying Beats Losing

"Tying Ole Miss was better than losing, but it sure wasn't as good as winning," said Shira's quarterback Tommy Pharr. Pharr, a stumpy, 5-foot-9, 190-pound genius with the option, is State's best hope for getting into the win column this year.

"You wouldn't believe the change in attitude here this year," Pharr said. "Winning has become the most important thing to us seniors. After all, we could win them all this year and we still wouldn't be up to 500 for our careers here."

A number of players mentioned their desire to win five games, but Shira himself refused to be even that optimistic. Said Shira, "I wish one had said 10-0. But its difficult to figure out wins; you have to have some luck in there too."

"We're going to be better offensively, but awfully green on defense where it looks like seven sophomores may start," Shira said.

backs are the power types. Our quarterbacks are adequate and we think our receivers (Phil Thompson and Jim Grant) are two of the best in the SEC.

"We hope to do an intelligent job of attacking defenses. We work our boys hard, but they know we do it for a purpose. We are trying to make them winners."

But, the questioner continued, isn't a national championship a totally unrealistic goal?

"Not at all," Ray retorted. "Every major coach is always shooting for a national title. Here at Kentucky we have three goals - the SEC championship, a bowl bid and the national title."

No Triple Option

Ray was asked if he planned to adopt the "triple option" which most SEC schools are going to this year.

"Even Houston, which devised the triple option, fumbles four or five times a game with it," Ray said. "Teams that put it in without the right personnel are making a mistake. We don't have that type of people so we'll leave it alone."

How can he be so confident of winning in view of all the indications that Kentucky probably will be a loser again.

"That's the kind of person I am," Ray replied. "No matter what others may say, this is the way I feel."

Shadow Of Bobby Dodd Is Growing Longer At Tech

By DAVID MOFFIT
UPI Sports Writer

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Bobby Dodd shadow, which Bud Carson tried to escape through changes in staff and style, grows longer as Georgia Tech prepares for what likely will be its third straight losing season.

Dodd, now cloistered behind his athletic director's door, had only two losers during the 22 seasons he was head coach of the Yellow Jackets; none his last 16 years. Carson, his successor, hasn't had a winner.

You have to go all the way back to the early '30s, when Dodd became William Alexander's assistant, to find another era in Georgia Tech football history as unproductive as the present.

Carson blames his problems on the poor quality recruiting during the final Dodd years. Since he became head coach, too late to affect recruiting his first year, Carson is just now getting a crop of sophomores he can call his own.

Best in Years

Carson, who has been under fire because of the Yellow Jackets' misfortunes, insists that this year's sophomores, as a group, are the best he's seen since he came to Tech as head defensive coach in 1966. And, he says the incoming freshmen "are a bunch of real blue chip-

"We've got to depend upon our sophomores," he says. "They've got to mature in a hurry."

There's a chance that as many as eight sophomores will be starters and another half dozen in key reserve positions. Two — Charles Duda and Jack O'Neill — are challenging junior Jack Williams for the quarterback post vacated by Larry Good.

Two others — tailback-speedster Brent Cunningham, considered the best little man at Tech in more than a decade, and 228-pound defensive end Brad Bourne, who Carson insists carries a "can't miss" label — boost his hopes.

However, this year dependence upon sophomores bodes ill for a team that plays Tennessee, Auburn and Southern California in one stretch and closes with Notre Dame and Georgia.

Losses Were Heavy

Tech was 4-6 in Carson's first two seasons and pessimists are predicting a 3-7 mark this time around. They point out that the Jackets lost Good, their two best receivers in John Sias and Joel Stevenson and 26 of 52 lettermen.

Tech's strength on offense appears to be at guard where Mike Bradley (230) and Joe Vitunic hold forth. The only other returning regulars on the offensive unit are tackle Galin Mumford (240) and tight end Steve Foster (223), a defensive end last year.

Carson is more concerned about his defense. Last year's unit gave up an average of 26.3 points, 233.9 rushing yards and 368.5 total yards per game—all unwanted school records.

But he feels the defensive secondary, where sophomores Rick Lewis and Jeff Ford have been added, will be a strong point; that the linebacking, featuring Buck Shiver and Bill Flowers, has talent and depth; and that Bourne will be exceptional.

But what Carson really wants is for Tech followers to wait until next year when this year's freshmen become eligible.

Readers request letter reprint

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am sending you a clipping I cut out of the paper several years ago (during Korea) and I am begging you to run it again—especially in the PACIFIC STARS AND STRIPES.

Please send my copy back. It is tattered and practically worn out, but it's the only copy I have, and I have carried it in my wallet for so long I feel lost without it.

S-SGT. FROM BIG T

DEAR S-SGT.: All right, soldier, you win!

DEAR ABBY: I just received a letter from my husband in Korea and would you like to know how something you wrote in your column over a year ago has helped to keep our marriage a true one. I can best show you by quoting a portion of my husband's letter.

"Do you remember the clipping you sent me from Dear Abby's column when I first got over here? The one about the soldier in Korea who wanted to know what to do about his 'physical needs' while he was overseas? Well, I still carry it and I've read it so many times it's worn to shreds. It has helped to keep me strong, Honey. It's too bad the army doesn't issue a copy to every man overseas. They could save a lot of money on curing V. D. and keep a lot of homes from breaking up."

Would you please print it again, Abby? I want to be sure the one my husband has doesn't get too worn to read.

A GRATEFUL READER

DEAR READER: With pleasure. Here it is:

DEAR ABBY: My problem is one that bothers thousands of GIs so I hope you will print the answer because it is needed badly. I am a happily married man with a wonderful wife and two small children back in the states. I have been in Korea for four months. After living a normal married life for three years, what is a healthy young man supposed to do for his physical needs? There are 12 women for every GI over here and women practically throw themselves at our feet. Don't get me wrong, Abby, I love my wife and always will, but I have a long hitch over here, and I am only human. This letter is sincere and I'm not ashamed to sign my name, but if you use it, please sign me, JERSEY

And my reply:

DEAR JERSEY: Assume for a moment that I received the following letter: DEAR ABBY: I am a happily married woman with a wonderful husband and two small children. My husband has been in Korea for four months. After living a normal married life for three years, what is a young healthy woman supposed to do for her physical needs? There are plenty of men around, and when they learn that my husband is in Korea they practically throw themselves at my feet. Don't get me wrong, Abby, I love my husband and always will, but he's going to be gone a long time and I am only human.

[signed] JERSEY'S WIFE

Well, Jersey, I would tell that woman to keep as busy as possible with her duties and as many wholesome activities as her time and energy permit. I'd suggest reading, exhausting physical exercise, and yes, even prayer! I'd tell her to stay sober and to avoid temptation and to write to you every day! And that, Jersey, is my answer to you, and to all your buddies in the same lonesome boat.

Sincerely,

ABBY

Nursery Rhyme Words Can Be Used To Describe Women Drivers In Many Ways

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—"When she was good, she was very good and when she was bad, she was horrid."

Familiar words of a nursery rhyme, yes. But they also aptly describe some women automobile drivers, according to a computer-analyzed study of drivers of both sexes and all driving age groups.

One of the things indicated is that the experienced over 45 woman driver who is bad is very, very bad (she has a greater number of violations than the men) while the experienced woman driver who is a good one is a very good one (she has fewer bad driving habits).

Anytime a man makes a remark about "women drivers, ugh!", you can toss this finding at him—a larger percentage of men than women had over 10 violations and the "safest" group appears to be women 16-25 years; they recorded fewer violations than any other age group.

More Flattering
"Test results are not going to contribute to peace between the sexes," said Dr. Harry J. Woehr, a clinical psychologist, who supervised the testing of more than 7,000 drivers. "Men fancy themselves safer drivers than women. But the true meaning of this not unexpected."

male assessment may be more flattering to women than might ordinarily be inferred. . . women have a better knowledge of their limitations than men."

Woehr heads a firm of management and consulting psychologists in Philadelphia. The tests were given at the New York Automobile Show in April and the results just released. The Pirelli Tire Corp. sponsored them in the interests of safer driving.

The tests included driver records and self-rating on drivers' personality traits scaled between two extremes—such as "impulsive" or "restrained," "angry" or "friendly."

Not Most Important
Woehr said the study showed that "contrary to popular opinion, alertness is not the most important factor in maintaining a safe driving record." On the basis of test information, "We can only conclude that alert drivers do not necessarily have the best driving record with regard to violations. Obviously alertness is a desirable trait. . . (but) traffic violations are related more significantly to attitude, mood and personal outlook than to the alertness aspect."

In the tests, Woehr found that "people with over 10 violations had lower stability scores, poorer attitudes and were more moody."

As for attitude, the tests

Golden Anniversary Is Celebrated By Mr. & Mrs. Miller

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Miller of 319 Woodlawn, Murray, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Sunday, August 24, with an open house held at the home of one of their daughters, Mrs. William Bailey, 17th and Main Streets, Murray.

The couple was recipient of many gifts and cards which they appreciated very much. Mrs. Miller wore a yellow dotted swiss dress with a white orchid corsage.

Refreshments of cake and punch were served from the dining room table overlaid with a lace cloth under white. Of special interest on the table was the wedding cake and the amber gold glass punch bowl.

Serving at the table were Miss Debbie Miller, Miss Zandra Bailey, Miss Decie Bailey, and Miss Jennifer Trotter.

Lovely floral arrangements were used at vantage points throughout the house. On the mantle was a picture of Mr. and Mrs. Miller when they were first married and another picture of them taken recently.

Out of town guests were Mr. Miller's sister, Mrs. Henry Jones and Mr. Jones, Eloise Collins, and LaGena Collins, all from Nashville, Tenn.

Their children, Robert M. Miller, Mrs. Bailey, and Mrs. William Miller, were all present along with all the grandchildren except one, Don Bailey who is serving in the Army.

The emphasis on fall fashions is on long lines. There is an elongated look to jackets, dresses have long sleeves, pants have a stretched out look. Long-line tunics, vests and weskits have been around for several months.

The argyle look returns to fashion with a splash of color. These classic plaids appear in casual cardigans, worn with pleated skirts or tailored pants, in tunics and vests.

Teach yourself bridge with the help of a new learning system. A patented device called the "Automatic Dealer" deals out 40 programmed teaching hands. Used in conjunction with the self-teacher, one, two, three or four persons can learn to play the game or better their ability.

Miss Carolyn Fly Exchanges Wedding Vows With Wilson William Woolley At St. Edwards Catholic Church, Fulton

The marriage of Miss Carolyn Fly to Wilson William Woolley of Murray was solemnized in the St. Edwards Catholic Church, Fulton, on Saturday, the sixteenth of August, at five o'clock in the afternoon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Fly of Fulton and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Woolley of Colorado Springs, Colorado.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Father Hagman. A program of music was presented by Miss Sarah Catharine Hyland.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white organza fashioned with peau d'ange lace on an empire bodice and embroidered with seed pearls, and with lace appliques scattered over the A-line skirt.

The chapel length mantilla of gossamer English net was bordered by a wide band of matching lace.

She carried a Colonial nosegay of white rosebuds and lilies of the valley. The bride's only jewelry was a heart engraved bracelet given to her by the groom.

Miss Margaret Omar served as maid of honor and Miss Billie Dianne Lynn, cousin of the bride, served as bridesmaid. They wore identical floor length gowns of pale blue, fashioned with empire waists, bordered in white lace. Their headpieces were made of blue net centered with a blue bow. They carried Colonial nosegays of white roses, blue mums, and lilies of the valley.

Dwain McIntosh of Reidland served as best man and Richard Taylor of Connelton, Ind., served as groomsmen. Ushers were Stephen Fly, brother of the bride, and George Thomas Lynn, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Fly chose to wear for her daughter's wedding a pale olive green crepe dress topped with a lace coat. She wore matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Woolley, was attired in a blue knit costume and matching accessories with a corsage of orchids.

Reception
Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Derby's Kentucky Room, Fulton.

Serving at the bride's table were Miss Sandra Cash, Miss Carol Luther, and Mrs. Ray Mc-

Larty. Mrs. William Hennings, sister of the groom, presided at the register.

The couple left later for a wedding trip to Florida with the bride wearing a basket weave coat dress in white background with brown and tan plaid. Her accessories were tan and she carried a rose corsage from her bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Woolley are now at home at 1017 Story Avenue, Murray.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Heidert, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bryan, Miss Martha Guier, Miss Lolita Crouch, Miss Vivian Hale, and Mrs. Sandra K. James, all of Murray; Emil Missaghi of Bowie, Md.; Mrs. V. M. Hennings and Miss Patricia George of Louisville; Mr. and Mrs. F. Ray McLarty and Mr. and Mrs. Darrell W. George of Memphis, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Bennett of Paducah; Steve Lambert of Evansville, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Hubbard, Jr., of Mayfield; Mrs. Lou Delle Hennings and daughter, Sheri, of Dallas, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lynn and son, Billy, of Benton; Mr. and Mrs. John L. Marlowe and Miss Margot Ellis of Jackson, Tenn.; Mrs. Noel Blalock of Whitehaven, Tenn.

Rehearsal Dinner
A rehearsal dinner was given at Park Terrace Restaurant, Fulton, on Friday, August 15, at eight-thirty o'clock in the evening.

Hosts for the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Woolley of Colorado Springs, Colorado, parents of the groom-elect.

Covers were laid for twenty-five members of the wedding party and out of town guests. The bridal couple presented gifts to their attendants.

APPRECIATION!!

I wish to take this opportunity to publicly express my appreciation to the more than 3,000 members, patrons and friends of the Farmers Coop for allowing me to serve you for the past 23 years. Your confidence has been expressed by the fact that you spent almost $11 million with me in that time.

Due to the fact that my health was broken by the continued presence of insecticides and chemicals, I am no longer connected with your Coop.

Since I am a very poor loafer, I will be grateful to any business that might be able to offer me part-time work. I feel that I can make a direct contribution to some business in Murray.

AGAIN I SAY THANKS TO ALL WHO HAVE MADE MY JOB SO PLEASURABLE.

Kentucky Burgoo

"DOG TRIBUTE" SELLS INFORMATION

Some of the efforts that are expended to induce people from other states to visit Kentucky are not obvious selling jobs. The Department of Public Information produces brochures on the state parks, highway maps, billboards and various other "hard sell" invitations to out-of-state people. But it also uses more subtle approaches. It puts Kentucky's best foot forward so that a pleasant, charming sort of image comes to mind when people hear the word "Kentucky". Part of the soft sell is embodied in the travel shows where Kentucky has an information booth. There are about fourteen of these shows. Artful, knowledgeable person is on hand all the time to answer people's questions, tell them about fishing, golf courses, camping, state parks, square dancing and the hundred other subjects people are curious about. But nobody actually tries to sign a person up to visit a state park or go to the races or buy a horse. The Kentucky people simply exert charm and talk about the beauties and wonders of the commonwealth. They never say anything bad about any other state. But whenever the opportunity occurs, they speak pleasantly of Kentucky and Kentuckians and the things they say make people think fondly of the Bluegrass State.

Pictures of horses and white plank fencing also leave a pleasant impression with people from other states. And the image of Daniel Boone is worth just about any price you care to name, particularly with youngsters.

Another gentle touch that people like is what is known to Kentucky's Department of Public Information as "the dog tribute." It's a handsomely printed sheet that fits an inexpensive frame and it has instant and irresistible appeal to dog lovers. It has the head of a homely looking hound on it and the title "Man's Best Friend—A Kentuckian's Tribute." The tribute then follows.

The text is from the address that Senator George Vest made before a jury when he was pleading the case of a client whose beloved hound, "Old Drum," had been shot by a neighbor, allegedly for killing sheep.

When Senator Vest was named as the legal counsel for his man, the opposition promptly retained another U. S. senator, Francis M. Cockrell. The case became a great cause and attracted nation-wide attention.

Senator Cockrell did a masterly job. He marshalled his facts into a completely convincing justification for destroying a marauding, sheep-killing dog. Senator Vest didn't question his opponent's facts of refute him in anyway. Instead he spoke quietly about the nature of a dog.

After the first sentence everyone present was spellbound. One of the people there said that you could have heard a pin drop in the courtroom.

When Senator Vest finished speaking there was a wave of wild applause and the judge's gavel couldn't begin to silence. Members of the jury and spectators in the packed courtroom wept unashamedly. Senator Vest won a unanimous verdict and his words became just about immortal.

George Graham Vest was born in 1830 in what is known as the Vest-Lindsey House. Now used as office space by the state government, the house is on the block that is called the "Corner of Celebrities." This block produced nine U. S. senators, six U. S. congressmen, two U. S. Supreme Court justices, two U. S. cabinet officers, nine governors, three admirals and seven high-ranking diplomats.

This information, gently but persistently stressing Kentucky, is set forth in a sheet that fits back to back with the one that has the dog's picture. People love to give the tribute to children and children love to get the tribute. It has been given as a premium at dog shows and there is a constant trickle of requests throughout the year. Anybody can have a copy free, just by asking for it. You can get a suitable frame in the dime store and every dog lover in the world wants one.

Here's what Senator Vest told the jury around 100 years ago: "Gentlemen of the Jury: The best friend a man has in this world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter that he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and our good name, may become traitors to their faith. The money that a man has, he may lose. It flies away from him, perhaps in a moment of ill-considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when success is with us, may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads. "The one absolutely selfless friend that man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous is his dog. A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground, where the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer; he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounter with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When all other friends desert, he remains. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces, he is

Believe it or not, beer cans can menace chains on permanent offshore moorings, according to a veteran Atlantic Coast marina operator. He reports that "punctured beer cans thrown over-as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens.

"If fortune drives the master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him, to guard him against danger, to fight against his enemies. And when the last scene of all comes, and death takes his master in its embrace and his body is laid away, there by the graveside, will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad, but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even in death."

If you'd like to have a copy of this tribute, just send me your name and address and I'll be happy to mail you one without charge. Around 50,000 of these pleasant little tributes have been sent to dog lovers throughout the world. They cost the state almost nothing but they produce a million dollars worth of good will and they manage to identify Kentucky with one of mankind's basic loyalties. That's what you call a "soft sell."

BOATING

By JACK WOLISTON

No reason was given but insiders speculate economic factors were involved in England's withdrawal as a challenger for the America's Cup in 1970. This leaves it up to France and Australia to fight it out in elimination trials next summer for the right to race the defending American Yacht.

For fishermen: A new device called a "Buzz Ray" which is designed to rock with the motion of the water, send out seductive sounds and flashing light rays and, according to the inventor, attract fish from half a mile away. Then there's a new portable depth-sounding kit which can be hooked up on a boat's transom in a matter of minutes and is a big aid in determining the nature of the bottom and in locating fish schools.

The ABYC also has established a standard in answer to another often-asked question: If a boat has a permanently installed fuel system, how fire resistant must the components be? The answer: The system, and all individual components, as installed in the boat shall be capable of withstanding a 2 1/2 minute exposure to free burning fuel, of the type for which the system is designed, without causing a failure that would result in liquid or vapor leakage.

Announcement has been made of a Nov. 15 deadline for submission of entries for the annual National Gold Cup Awards for Boating Safety. The awards, originated in 1957 and sponsored by Kikkhafer-Mercury, will be presented next January during New York's National Boat Show to leaders in three categories: a community or group; a magazine, newspaper, radio or TV station; and a governmental agency on any level.

Short Shots From The Land Between The Lakes

Labor Day marked the beginning of the fall season in Land Between the Lakes. Hunting, fishing, hiking, family and group camping, seeing the fall color display, back country driving, and even "buffalo watching" are among the many activities that can be enjoyed in the area during one of the most beautiful seasons of the year.

Squirrel and dove seasons are already in full swing in Land Between the Lakes, and although the squirrel population is down this year, dove hunters had good success in the area on Labor Day. Later this fall and winter there will be hunting for deer (bow and gun), rabbit, quail, raccoon, opossum, wild turkey, geese, and ducks.

Hillman Ferry Campground will remain open until October 19, and Piney Campground, which opened July 1, will remain open year-round. Piney has heated central service buildings and is located in an excellent fishing and hunting area on the Kentucky Lake shoreline. In addition to Piney, Camp Energy, a group camp near the Conservation Education Center, will be open throughout the year. Outdoorsmen can also enjoy the 20 lake access areas along the Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley shorelines.

One of the new visitor attractions in the area this fall will be the arrival of a herd of 20 buffalo the latter part of September. The buffalo will roam in a large pasture bordering The Trace near the former site of Model, Tennessee. Buffalo were once native to the Land Between the Lakes area.

The Youth Station within the Conservation Education Center of Land Between the Lakes is already booked to capacity for the fall and winter seasons. Classroom groups from Kentucky, Tennessee and surrounding states come here to live and study in the out-of-doors. Six dormitories and a cafeteria and assembly building are provided for user groups.

Thousands of outdoor fun-seekers visited Land Between the Lakes over the 3-day Labor Day weekend. Traditionally considered the end of the summer season, the sun-filled holiday weekend drew capacity crowds to both lakes and to picnic and camping areas, state parks, and private resorts located throughout the twin lakes area. The three family campgrounds in Land Between the Lakes—Hillman Ferry, Rushing Creek, and Piney—recorded some 6,113 camper nights over the Labor Day weekend, while total visits to Land Between the Lakes were estimated at more than 25,000. Rushing Creek will close for the season September 4, while Hillman Ferry remains open until October 19. Piney Campground will remain open throughout the year.

Camp Energy, a reservation group camp located on Energy Lake, will be one of the camping headquarters for groups of bowhunters who will invade Land Between the Lakes this fall in pursuit of a trophy fallow or white-tailed buck or turkey gobbler. Camp Energy, near the Conservation Education Center, is located in an area that has a good concentration of deer. The camp has heated shower and rest room buildings. Bowhunting groups who would like to reserve campsites at Energy should contact John Richerson, Land Between the Lakes, P. O. Box 27, Golden Pond, Kentucky 42231.

Bowhunters can enjoy a split season for deer and wild turkey this fall. The first season opens October 18 and runs through November 8, and the second is from December 20 through December 31. White-tailed or fallow deer of either sex may be taken, and the turkey hunt is for gobblers only.

FISHING

Water temperature continue to drop in Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley, and black bass and crappie fishing is improving. Good catches of largemouth bass are being taken in Lake Barkley by jugging plastic worms in the deep stickups in water 7 to 12 feet in depth. Most of the deep stickups are found near the mouths of the bays or near the main channel. Plug casters are also picking up some bass on deep diving baits off the deep points and fallen trees of the main lake. Some of the best strings of bass have been reported being taken during midday in Barkley. At Kentucky Lake casting the purple or blue plastic worm in the deep stump beds is producing the best strings of bass. Scattered catches of bass have been reported by casting surface lures along the gravel bars at daylight. Crappie continue to hit minnows at 12 to 20 feet along the old stream banks where stumps or other cover is available. Both lakes are clear and stable with the water temperature around 80 degrees.

SAUGER FISH FAVOR WESTERN KENTUCKY WATERS

Mention "sauger" to residents of Eastern Kentucky and in all probability they'll not know what you're talking about. This fish just doesn't occur in that region. Of course, the avid fisherman anywhere will know about the sauger, and in Western Kentucky even the casual fishermen are acquainted with this cousin of the walleye.

It was in Western Kentucky that the sauger first made their appearance in good numbers. Shortly after the construction of Kentucky Dam, impounding huge Kentucky Lake, the sauger became a fished-for species that was to be found at certain times below the dam. Usually it is in the fall when the greatest congregations are present, and to be sure, they are not to be found every year in this location. Some falls they will be plentiful and offer several weeks of good fishing but for some reason they may not be there the following year.

A favorite fishing spot is in the lock pit area below the dam. For some reason they seemed to gather there in preference to other spots and tremendous catches are recorded. Minnows are a favorite bait, but flashing artificial lures also will take a heavy toll of these fish. Then, as suddenly as they appear, the sauger will disappear and its whereabouts for the next several months are unknown. Then, suddenly, in the latter stages of winter, they may be found in the very same places but perhaps in greater numbers.

This second foray is understood by biologists and fishermen. The sauger spawns early in the year, often in February, and this is the reason for their surge upstream in the Tennessee River. Of course, when they reach Kentucky Dam they were stopped and, spawning or not, they are fair game for the fishermen. This type fishing has proved unusually good in these early months of the year.

The sauger also is found in other streams than the Tennessee River in Kentucky. On occasions, and the occasions may be a half dozen years apart, they will be found in the Cumberland River, the Kentucky and the Ohio, and perhaps in a half dozen other streams. They offer good bonus fishing but it is not often that a fisherman goes strictly sauger-fishing in these streams.

Now, the sauger has spread out into the larger lakes of Western Kentucky. They are often taken from Kentucky and Barkley Lakes although the number caught is not great a fisherman will never forget the battle they offer. In the lakes they are taken best on minnows, but the artificial lures at times offer a tempting attraction. Also, trollers often are rewarded with several nice sauger.

The sauger is similar to the walleye in many respects although size is not one of the similarities. A four-pound sauger is a good one in the Kentucky environs although they grow much larger in other areas. At best a 10 pounder is a whooper. They have teeth much like the walleye and the spawning habits are about the same as the walleye. The flesh of the sauger is identical to that of the walleye.

They are great travelers and that may be the reason for their sporadic appearances in rivers and streams. They don't hang around the same place very long at a time unless they are in an impoundment that prevents their traveling.

They have a white belly that blends very well with an olive gray on their sides and backs, sometimes with a brassy tinge. Like the walleye they have large glassy-colored eyes. As a food the sauger is preferred by many fishermen.

This species may be known as sand pike, or the river pike or the jack salmon, but by whatever name, the sauger is a valuable member of the fish colony that abounds in Kentucky waters.

Pill Users Face Risk

By ISABELLE HALL

WASHINGTON UPI — A four-year study by American doctors concluded Thursday that women using birth control pills face more than four times the risk of serious blood-clotting diseases than non-users, but that the benefits were high enough to designate "the pill" as safe.

The Food and Drug Administration's Advisory Committee on Obstetrics and Gynecology urged much more intensive investigations of whether and how the pill might be related to cancer of the breast and uterus and its effect on almost every other organ of the body.

By early this year, the FDA estimated there were 20 types of oral contraceptives on the market. A total of 8.5 million doses were being distributed monthly in the United States compared to 18.5 million a month throughout the world. Scientists were unable to say positively that every dose was taken.

The pills have been found highly effective in preventing pregnancy. Only 0.1 to 1.4 per 100 women a year became pregnant while using the pill.

The FDA panel of physicians, under the direction of Dr. Philip E. Sartwell of Johns Hopkins University Medical School, found the death rate from various blood-clotting diseases among pill users to be about three of every 100,000 women per year, compared to a rate of 1.7 per 100,000 among non-pill users of child-bearing age.

"The risk of thromboembolism to a woman using hormonal contraceptives was estimated by indirect methods to be 4.4 times that of the non-user," the doctors said.

The connection between oral contraceptives and thromboembolism bore out results of earlier British studies, which found the risk to be seven to 10 times greater among pill users. The U. S. study also found a higher incidence among women taking a "sequential" rather than a combination type pill.

The doctors stopped short of saying exactly how much greater the risk was, citing a lack of data. Sequential pills are those in which the hormones estrogen and progesterone are taken in succession on different days during the menstrual cycle instead of in combination.

Actor Hopes For Better Second Try

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD UPI — It is the consensus among producers and directors that actors as a species have a collective I. Q. of .01. There is much to substantiate this thesis.

Then again there is Monte Markham, a bright, muscular actor from Florida whose first television series "The Second Hundred Years" — in which he played a duel role — bombed out last season.

Next fall he will star in "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town."

You will recall Gary Cooper starred in the movie version of that title which leaves Monte with a difficult act to follow. But he is up to it.

"You're gun shy the second time around in a television series," he said between rehearsals. "On the first show I kept hoping the scripts and the casting would improve. They never did."

"Then it's suddenly over and you realize you didn't know who to argue with. It's too late to get anything done."

"I was assured changes would be made, but it was like fighting a mound of dough. No matter what you attempted it would be lost in sloth."

Markham's I. Q. has climbed sharply in the years he has been off the air. He appeared in four television guest shots and co-starred in the movie, "Guns of the Magnificent 7."

Without attending night school Monte concluded things would be different with "Mr. Deeds."

"This new show is pure gold compared to the first one," he said. "The quality of production is high. And Pat Harrington Jr. is just great as the co-star."

"And now I know who to talk to. I go right to the producers when I want script changes. If I have a good idea, they shoot it their way and my way — and we use the best one."

Usually it is Markham's. The day he was given the first script to study he turned on his television set to discover the late show — right Cooper's version of "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town."

Markham switched it off. "There were some similarities in the Deeds character and that of the one I played in my last series," Markham explained. "And I wanted to do something different."

Curiously, a week later Markham had the movie re-run for his own edification. "Naturally I won't play the role in the slow tempo of Cooper," he said. "Nobody could. I'll just have to use my own instincts and try to bring the character alive."

"But I'm keeping close tabs on those scripts. And when I see weaknesses, we have a conference of 10 to 15 of us involved with the show and get things thrashed out before we film the episode."

"That's what an actor learns the second time around."

MAE WEST STILL COMES ON LIKE A VAMP AT 76

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — No-body's bothered to tell Mae West she is 76 years old. So she still comes on like a vamp with every man who ventures near her white and gold-leaf parlor—ever the temptress.

And at 76 she could teach Raquel Welch a few lessons.

"Honey, I'm glad you came up to see me," she said, touching her blonde-white tresses in the age-old gesture of the flight.

Mae will soon start her first movie in 26 years, "Myra Breckinridge." Her last was "The Heat's On" in 1943. How does she feel about returning to films after all these years?

Keeps Up With Times "Great, honey," she replied. "I have kept up with the times. I'm not worried a bit."

Will the sex symbol of the 30s wear as little as today's sex goddesses?

Miss West touched her bosom in mock astonishment and lowered her eyes in an impressive great show of modesty.

"Nudity is art, not sex," Mae said, swirling her floor-length white satin negligee in an arc. "I don't believe in nudity," she continued. "It detracts from your face and personality. That's why I never show my ankles."

Miss West is elated that the producers of the film are allowing her to write much of her own dialogue and that Edith Head has been hired to whip up a flashy wardrobe for her.

"They used to censor my dialogue in the old days," Mae

Let Me Write

by Darrell Shoemaker

I could not write History because I am not a historian, but some of the things that I'll be writing about will seem almost like History, especially to the younger set.

For instance, the first year that I was married, we moved to Gibb's Store on what was known as the Glenn Rogers Farm—a 160 acre tract. Alvin Farris, Dad and myself farmed the entire place. Now every single acre is in a modern subdivision with every home far above average. Frankly, Henry Warren built a lulu of a home over my tomato, bean, etc., patch.

Three of the fastest growing businesses in Murray during the last ten years would just have to said with a come-hither smile. "Now I can hardly wait to come up with some good lines because there isn't a censor anymore."

Paid $350,000 For Role Mae said she is being paid $350,000 for her role, and $50,000 for every week she works after the six-week cutoff. "I've turned down dozens of pictures," she said, "including 'Pal Joey' and 'The Art of Love' because the construction wasn't right for me. This role is just what I've been looking for."

For many years Mae West was an anachronism. Today she is as high style as a W.C. Field's poster. She seldom mentions that late comedian with whom she made two smash hits. They didn't move in the same circles or appreciate the same things.

Fields would choose a martini over feminine companionship every time. A barbarous infidel with so little taste would hardly be welcome in Mae's parlor.

be the Paschall Truck Line, the Hutson Chemical Company, and Ward & Elkins. It could not have happened to better people.

Was thinking only yesterday what a tragedy to have physical limitations put on men like W.C. Elkins, Glen Thurman, Phil Mitchell, Mason Thomas and others. They are original in thinking; not afraid to invest in the future and would have been great leaders to grow up with. My Daddy had a unique expression when he was asked about some good man—He'd say, "He's alright, Son. He's all wool and a yard wide." You can add Stubb Wilson to further compliment the above list.

The most unmentioned, unheralded, unappreciated, and publicly unrecognized man in Murray is Cleo Sykes. He has spent three decades of free service molding into the minds of our boys, Boy Scouting. Was it J. Edgar Hoover who said, "I never saw on record a major crime committed by an Eagle Scout."? Something should be done NOW in recognition of his services. — You name it—I'll see it through.

1968 was a dry year in Nebraska, but the four southeast counties were just a catastrophe and after a long time, those still trying to survive it, even made jokes of it. I read that an old timer said, "Water was so scarce that the Baptists started to sprinkling, the Presbyterians were using a dampened cloth, and the Methodists were just issuing rain checks."

Southern California's graduated football star, O.J. Simpson who is scheduled to start his gridiron career this fall, will have a guest star role in one of the episodes in the new "Medical Center" one-hour drama series on the CBS schedule. He will play a halfback who is stricken at the height of his career.

Chevrolet's newest entry is the Elegant Monte Carlo Coupe for 1970

A new concept of elegance is the distinctive Monte Carlo Sport Coupe. This newest addition to the Chevrolet line is characterized by smooth flowing lines and sculptured surfaces dramatically emphasized by the longest hood ever produced by Chevrolet. The plush interior includes a simulated wood burl accent on the instrument panel and extra-thick foam cushioned front and rear seats. The Monte Carlo will be at dealerships on September 18.

Chevrolet's Newest Caprice Coupe

Chevrolet's top-of-the-line, the Caprice Coupe for 1970, is dressed up with a new front styling of grille, hood and fenders. Recessed vertical taillights and color-accented wheel covers are only two of the many refinements found in the Caprice this year. The new Chevrolet line of passenger cars will be in the dealers' showrooms on September 18.

ALBUM RELEASED — Key Quartet singers, whose album of gospel songs was released Monday in Nashville, are Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Key (left) and Mr. and Mrs. Dolphus Key. The accompanists are Lurene DePriest, pianist, and Clayburn Arnold, guitarist.

Nashville Firm Releases Key Quartet Gospel Album

The Key Quartet, gospel singing group from Paris, had a record album released Monday by Mission Records of Nashville.

The album, "Living with Jesus," contains 12 selections in stereophonic sound. A color jacket features a photograph of the quartet and their accompanists.

The quartet consists of Johnny Key, lead; his wife, Lottie, tenor; Dolphus Key, bass, and his wife, Freda, alto. Accompanists are Lurene DePriest, pianist, and Clayburn Arnold, guitarist.

The accompanists are featured in one number, "Meeting in the Air." Other songs in the album are "He Will Set Your Fields on Fire," "Living With Jesus," "On the Sunny Banks," "For God So Loved," "Joy in the Camp," "The Lights of Home," "I'm Going Home," "Heaven," "In the Shelter of His Arms," "Poor Rich Man," and "He Is My Everything."

The album was termed by Louie S. Swift, Mission Records production manager, and the Rev. James T. Case, associate manager, "one of the finest gospel recordings available on the market today."

"The Key Quartet solicits your prayers as they endeavor to continue serving the cause of Christianity through their participation in concerts and gospel singings," a Mission Records news release said.

SEEN & HEARD

fare system over the past twenty years has been the gradual creation of an attitude which does not respond to reason. Any time that an individual believes that he can live well without working, supply his family with food, clothing and shelter without putting forth effort, and spends his time trying to qualify for programs rather than seeking a job, then his whole outlook changes until finally he feels he is "due" these things. What used to be the result of hard work are now described as "rights."

This almost impenetrable attitude has drained down to many young people with the resulting campus chaos, almost complete lack of responsibility, and the holding up of values which are worthless.

Fortunately these people are in the minority, but unfortunately we have people in authority with the same ideas who believe the majority should suffer to pamper this minority.

A change must take place whereby the thirty are rewarded and the shiftless penalized. At the moment the exact reverse is true.

Kinton Will Explain Order 'Drying Up' Clubs In Henry

By CHARLES FARMER

PARIS, Tenn., Sept. 5. — Dist. Atty. Gen. W. R. Kinton said Friday he will hold a news conference here next week to explain his directive to private clubs to stop serving liquor in legally dry Henry County.

Mr. Kinton met Thursday night in secret with representatives of Paris' private clubs.

The district attorney, whose jurisdiction also includes Gibson, Crockett and Haywood counties, reportedly took advantage of the meeting to explain the dilemma he faces in efforts to enforce the law "for all people equally."

The Henry County Grand Jury consistently returns indictments against citizens for violation of the liquor law while law enforcement officials adopt a hands-off position toward private clubs.

gery in California, his substitute, Crawford Hanley is taking the route.

Charles Smith who was the other Kirksey mailman is now taking Route Eight out of the Murray Postoffice. Smith is taking the overload on Route Seven and some on Routes One, Two, and Four.

James R. Miller who has been the mailman from Lynn Grove is now taking Route Seven out of Murray. His route still includes those on the Lynn Grove and part of the boxes on Murray Routes One and Four.

The postoffices at Kirksey and Lynn Grove are still in operation and will continue to be so, according to Postmaster Nanny Laverne Doores is the postmistress at Kirksey and Gene E. Watson is postmaster at Lynn Grove.

Other changes have been made in the various routes and many residents have had to change their boxes from one side of the road to the other. Nanny said he hoped the confusion will be cleared up soon.

Each of the eight rural routes now have about four hundred boxes. The mailmen are Ralph Finney, One; Robert Young, Two; Boyd Linn, Three; Alfred Young, Four; Thomas Herndon, Five; Hafton Garner, Six; James R. Miller, Seven; Charles Smith, Eight.

City Routes

The nine mailmen in the City of Murray have 4,123 stops to make on their routes, Nanny said.

City mailmen are Raphael Jones, One; Pete Farley, Two; Roy Newsome, Three; Charles Lamb, Four; Donald Crawford, Five; Lloyd Boyd, Six; Jerry Pierce, Seven; Sammy Farley, Eight; John McKee and Margie Bagwell, career subs, alternate on Nine.

Jerry Ford is the relief mailman for five of the routes each week. J. Raymond Jones is the parcel post carrier.

Officials at the Postoffice are Nanny, Postmaster; Cleo Sykes, Assistant Postmaster; G. B. Jones, Superintendent of Mails.

Clerks are Hillard Rogers, Preston Jones, Norman Klapp, James Swann, John Lassiter, Randolph Story, Don Wells, Millard Carman, Roy Folsom, and Larry Hurt.

Substitute clerks are Billie Farley, Louise Donaldson, and Donnie Edwards.

Custodians are Alfred Barnett and Henry Doran. Robert Steele is serving now as substitute custodian while Mr. Barnett is ill.

TREATED THURSDAY

Sam Eurlie Garland of 316 South 9th Street was treated at the emergency room of the Murray-Calloway County Hospital on Thursday. His injuries from a bicycle accident were not listed on the report, according to hospital authorities.

WHO WANTS THE BALL? — Murray High's Dan Anderson (74) and Paul Bryant (32) hit George McFarland (44) of Fulton County hard enough to knock the ball (foreground) out of his hands in last night's game at Holland Stadium. Murray recovered the fumble but the whistle had blown the ball dead and the Pilots retained possession.

eral fast backs last night in Carroll, McCushton, Mike Ryan and Johnny Williams as well as three reserve backs who did a good job. Jimmy Brandon, 190 pound Tiger fullback, bullied his way through the Fulton line several times to pick up critical short yardage.

The Murray High Band made their debut last night before a well filled stadium. Pretty majorettes led the strong Black and Gold band in several intricate field maneuvers obviously in a crowd pleasing exhibition.

The Tigers got 19 first downs for the night with 10 for Fulton. One of the nicest plays of the night was a double reverse by Fulton's James Moore which caught the left side of the Murray line asleep. Carlton took the ball running to his left and passed it off to Moore who made it to the Murray 12 from his own 35. This play was made with seconds left on the scoreboard and aided Fulton in reaching the Murray 2 where the ball went over to the Tigers.
